Who picks well

The book's implied hit rate is what the odds say should happen. Actual is what did. Beating your implied rate means you're finding value; taking long shots is fine if you cash them.

Risk appetite

Name	Avg implied	Actual	Edge	Risk rank
Dad	51%	0%	-51 pts	1 of 4 (biggest swings)
Matt	51%	100%	+49 pts	2 of 4
Dan	52%	100%	+48 pts	3 of 4
Nick	53%	100%	+47 pts	4 of 4

Lower implied probability means longer odds. Edge is actual minus implied, in percentage points.

Awards

MVP: longest-odds leg that hit. Goat: safest-odds leg that missed. Sole anchor: the only miss in a losing week.

Parlay +1278 Stake $40.00 Pays $551.25 (to win $511.25)

Sunk by Dad (Tampa Bay Buccaneers +3.5). $40.00 gone. The other 3 legs all hit, so this one stings.
Goat: Dad, whose -104 pick was the safest miss.
